Welcome to Ethics and the Use of Force, and thank you for choosing to take this class. This course is designed to provide you with a graduate-level exploration of key ethical challenges in the field of national security. Over the next three months we will cover a broad range of topics related to warfare, the role of the state, and ethical issues raised by the decision to use force. We will look closely at the impact of technology on the character of war, and its growing influence on national level policy. We will scrutinize historic cases and ongoing conflicts, with a particular focus on when a state should go to war, and what rules ought to apply once conflict begins. Due to their expanding relevance in our own time, a major theme of this course will be war crimes. In particular, we will examine how and why they occur, and consider what role the United States should play when evidence of large-scale atrocities surfaces. Along the way we will also look at iterative tensions in civil-military relations. Because of its contextual importance to many of our topics, we will examine the roots of radical Islamic terrorism. We will also be alert to ethics and force issues that surface during the spring, in case they allow us to give our discussions added relevance.

While this is not a course on the law per se, legal matters—especially those related to the use of force—will serve as an important contextual lens throughout the semester. As importantly, this course is decidedly not a course on politics, nor is it designed as a forum for political debate. Rather, the goal is for students to stretch their perspectives, where appropriate look at issues from all sides, and give due consideration to the opinions of others. At the end of the semester, you should have a deeper appreciation for the complexities associated with national security decision making, to include the broad spectrum of opinions that exist on many of today’s most controversial national security issues.

Approach:
The potential list of subjects meriting consideration in a course such as is this is virtually endless. To keep the course focused, relevant, accessible and applicable, the assigned material is framed in a strategic context. That is, each topic will address matters of potential strategic impact on the national interests of the United States. You should expect to participate in conversations that mirror discussions occurring in the highest corridors of U.S. policy-making power. Indeed, the ultimate goal of this course is to prepare you to think about and discuss these issues as you would if advising a member of the National Security Council, a member of Congress, the leader of a major non-governmental organization (NGO), or a multi-national corporation’s board of directors. The written assignment (an Op-Ed) and presentation requirement (a 10 to 15-minute information briefing) further this objective. Both will be discussed later, but keep in mind that your briefing will be an integral part of your classmates’ overall learning experience.
Students with Special Needs:
If you are a student with a disability and you need academic accommodations, please see me and contact the Disability Resource Center (DRC) at 993-2474. All academic accommodations must be arranged through the DRC.

Attribution:
The Chatham House Rule applies to this class. In addition, any views or opinions expressed by your instructor are solely mine, and do not reflect the view or opinion of the United States Government, George Mason University, or any other state or local entity. This includes the U.S. Air Force and the National Defense University. Similarly, the views expressed in the readings do not necessary reflect my views, nor those of anyone other than the authors themselves. As will soon be apparent, many of the readings are designed to offer very disparate viewpoints.

Office Hours:
Office hours will occur in FH656 from 6:00p.m. to 7:00p.m. on Tuesdays, immediately before class. To request an alternative time, please contact me to make arrangements. I will be happy to accommodate.

Student Learning Outcomes:
Students having taken this course will be able to:

Exhibit an understanding of the importance of ethics and the law to U.S. National Security.
Explain the Constitutional framework for addressing the use of military force, both in theory and practice.
Recognize key ethical and legal issues associated with current US National Security policy challenges.
Articulate opposing views on enduring US National Security challenges.
Appreciate the views of other States and non-governmental actors on those challenges.
Write a publication-worthy OpEd for a major newspaper.
Present an information briefing capable of presentation to a general officer, ambassador, or member of the Senior Executive Service on a national security ethics matter of historic or current relevance.
Recognize some of the key journalists, authors and scholars in the fields of ethics, the use of force, national security in general, and national security law in particular.
Conduct graduate level research through multiple mediums and sources on real-world issues related to national security.
Articulate sophisticated judgments about ethical, moral, and broad legal issues in the field of national security.

Grading Criteria:
In-class contributions will be central to success in this class. You are expected to do the reading, watch the assigned videos (and listen to the one prescribed audio), and give critical aforethought to each assigned author’s/director’s position. While most sessions will include some lecture (we will also watch two films), the majority of classroom time should be spent discussing the issues at hand.
- In class contribution apart from in class presentation – 25%
- In class presentation – 25%
- Op-Ed – 25%
- Final Exam (closed book, based on assigned readings/videos) – 25%

Notes on the Assigned Readings/Videos:
This course includes four assigned texts, plus two more which are on line. A collection of other articles is assigned, too. The reading requirements vary by week, and are generally spaced out to allow for adequate preparation time. With regard to the assigned books, it is advisable to establish a time-management plan, and map-out a reading/viewing schedule in advance. For example, the readings for Topic 2 (on Abu Ghraib) are significantly longer than week one’s. Therefore, it is prudent to begin reading the Zimbardo text before the first class session. In addition, many of the weekly readings are divided into “group-assignments.” While students are expected to be familiar with readings not assigned to their group, they can focus on their sectioned-out readings in particular. Students will be expected to take the lead during class discussions about their group’s assigned readings. Many of the readings are also grouped into opposing (or at least non-aligned) positions, with the goal of fostering classroom debate. Please keep this in mind when reviewing the syllabus. Unless otherwise indicated, links to all the readings are contained in this syllabus, save from some released in/after December 2018. These links will be provided once available.

The assigned videos (to include films/movies/television shows) are carefully chosen to complement the readings. If you encounter difficulties in finding an assigned (or recommended) video, please let me know. During the first half of Topic 3, we will watch and discuss Conspiracy in class. Towards the end of the semester (Topic 13), we’ll watch and discuss Eye in the Sky. Your written assignment is due that day; so the Topic 13 readings are shorter than most.

Early in the semester, students should consider subscribing to an on-line news clipping service and (at least) one of the many blogs focusing on national security. These sources can provide very useful material—for the duration of this course and beyond. We will discuss several sites during our initial meeting.

Classroom Courtesy:
Because class discussions and deliberations are central to the course, listening to the comments of others is essential to our learning environment. The ability to engage others with whom you disagree is very important. Treating colleagues with respect, civility, and courtesy is indispensable.

We will address the use of electronic devices in class during the first session:
Please keep in mind this course calls upon you to engage with your colleagues and instructor in a graduate-level discussion about some of the most difficult, emotive, and important security-related topics of our time. Experience demonstrates that laptops and other electronic devices tend to distract from a successful seminar. You may certainly use an electronic device to take notes, refer to downloaded readings, to deliver your in-class presentation, or for special needs purposes. Please do not enable Wi-Fi, however, without instructor permission. Please do not record any portions of the class.

Op-Ed Assignment:
Op-Ed topic selections are due before class on February 7, 2019 (Topic 3). Please feel free to discuss potential topics with me in advance of that date. You will be allowed to write on almost anything of interest to you, provided it can be tied to the subject matter of this course. Follow the guidelines issued by the Washington Post on its Op-Ed FAQ page:

Include footnotes if/when appropriate; please use the latest Chicago Notes-Bibliography Style. The Op-Ed is due via e-mail to me at 2200 on Friday, April 5th, 2019. The class will not meet that week to afford you time to finalize your product. Finally, note that past students have published their Op-Eds in the media, to include the printed press. While this is entirely up to you, your goal should be to write something of publishable quality.

Presentation Assignment:
Your presentation topic choice is due on February 7th as well. Depending on class size, we will begin with presentations on or about week six, and continue through week twelve (covering seven sessions). Like the Op-Ed, you have broad discretion in choosing your topic; you should select something that interests you. More information about the assignment will be forthcoming, but please note the following for now.

1. The presentation is an information brief about a past or ongoing issue related to ethics, national security, and the use of force. The goal is to teach/inform your fellow students about your chosen topic.
2. Your presentation must be on a different subject than your Op-Ed. It cannot significantly overlap with one of the topics in this syllabus, but can be related to it.
3. You are expected to use PowerPoint (or some other visual aide).
4. The brief should last 10 to 15 minutes, no longer.
5. You are expected to cite sources, where appropriate. This can be provided on a separate document which you hand in, or included on your slides. Please use the Chicago Notes-Bibliography Style.
6. Please provide me with a hard copy of your slides the day prior to your presentation. (You may email me at adam_oler@yahoo.com). Please let me know at that time if you want the presentation returned to you.
7. Your presentation date will be randomly assigned.

Topical Outline of the Course:

Ethics & The Use of Force -- Part One: Point of Departure

1. Introduction: Thinking Strategically – “Madame Secretary, I recommend X because Y.”
   (January 24, 2019)

Assignment:
   (R1) Read the course syllabus.
Constitution of the United States. Focus on Articles I, II, and III.
http://www.archives.gov/exhibits/charters/constitution_transcript.html or https://www.usconstitution.net/const.pdf

Tom Bingham, The Rule of Law. {Focus on Part I & Part II}.

http://www.huffingtonpost.ca/adam-kingsmith/cognitive-bias-politics_b_3077740.html

Recommended Video: The Unknown Known.  Director: Errol Morris.

Abu Ghraib – Why Start Here?
(January 31, 2019)

Assignment:
(R1) Philip Zimbardo, The Lucifer Effect: Understanding How Good People Turn Evil.
{Focus on Chapters One and Twelve through Sixteen for class}.
Recommended Reading: Danial Lang, “Casualties of War,” The New Yorker, October 18, 1968, http://www.newyorker.com/magazine/1969/10/18/casualties-of-war
Recommended Video: Casualties of War.  Director: Brian De Palma.
Recommended Video: The Stanford Prison Experiment.  Director: Kyle Patrick Alvarez.

The Holocaust’s Enduring Warning
(February 7, 2019)

Note: Op-Ed and Presentation Topic Selections Are Due Before Class.

Assignment:
(V1) Required Video: “The World at War, Episode 20, Genocide.”
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GiSbZNf0Qo4
(V2) Required Video: “A Problem from Hell: Samantha Power Talks about Genocide.”
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nzxyFibDWGU
July 1, 1947.
(R4) Samantha Power, A Problem from Hell: America and the Age of Genocide, Pages 1-86.
http://quod.lib.umich.edu.mutex.gmu.edu/cgi/t/text/text-idx?c=acls;idno=heb03947
Optional Reading: Daniel Jonah Goldhagen. Hitler’s Willing Executioners.
Optional Reading: Christopher Browning. Ordinary Men.
Optional Video: Wannsee Conference. Director: Heinz Schirk. This Video is the German version of Conspiracy, which we will be watching in class. (German with English Subtitles).
Optional Video: Worse than War. Director: Daniel Jonah Goldhagen.

4. Civil-Military Relations – (Re)Approaching Crisis or Tempest in a Teapot?
   (February 14, 2019)
Assignment:

Part I: Introduction
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/867412838/fulltextPDF/40F1DA30D3DD44BCPQ/1?accountid=14541

Part II: A Revolt of the Civilians? Iraq War Era (Debate in Foreign Affairs)

Recommended Video: The Enemy Within. Director: Jonathan Darby. (Film based on the first reading).

Ethics & The Use of Force -- Part Two: Ethical and Legal Foundations

5. Introduction to Just War Theory.
   (February 21, 2019)
Assignment:

(Group One):

(Group Two):

6. The Separation of Powers – U.S. Law
(February 28, 2019)
[Student Presentations Start]

Assignment:

7. The Challenge and Sources of Radical Islam – Contextual Understanding & Bias Exploration
(March 7, 2019)
[Student Presentations]

Assignment:

Part I: The Middle East Crisis – Roots of Sectarianism (Everyone)
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/886825715?accountid=14541
http://muse.jhu.edu.mutex.gmu.edu/article/190386/pdf

SPRING BREAK WEEK OF 12-19 MARCH 2019 (NO OFFICE HOURS)

8. Targeting Case Study – Airpower, CIVCAS, and Evolving Norms.
(March 21, 2019)
[Student Presentations]

Assignment:

(V1) Required Video: Investigation of U.S. Airstrike on Afghan Hospital Briefing, April 29, 2016 (From Start to 15:10); remainder recommend).

(Date TBD, 2019)
[Student Presentations]

Assignment:

(Everyone):
(R2) “Key Figures in CIA Interrogation Program; from Lead Intelligence Officers to those they Suspected of Acts of Terrorism,” Wall Street Journal (Online), (December 9, 2014).
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/1634597325?accountid=14541

Page 8 of 13
(Group One):
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/233129887/CA9764859F3D4C6BPQ/1?accountid=14541
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/233127879?accountid=14541
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/233148875/CA9764859F3D4C6BPQ/3?accountid=14541

(Group Two):
(R6) John Yoo, "My Gift to the Obama Presidency; Though the White House Won't Want to Admit it, Bush Lawyers were Protecting the Executive's Power to Fight a Vigorous War on Terror." Wall Street Journal (Online), (February 23, 2010).
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/237945379?accountid=14541
http://search.proquest.com.mutex.gmu.edu/docview/1636321247?accountid=14541

(Everyone):

10. OP-ED DIRECTED WRITING DAY – 4 APRIL 2019 (NO OFFICE HOURS)
(Op-Eds Due AT 2200 on 5 April)

Ethics & The Use of Force -- Part Three: The Question of Intervention
11. On Intervention
   (April 11, 2019)
   [Student Presentations]
Assignment:
   (R1) Michael W. Doyle, The Question of Intervention: John Stuart Mill and the Responsibility to Protect.

   (April 18, 2019)
Assignment:

(Everyone (Cambodia)):
(R1) Samantha Power, A Problem from Hell: America and the Age of Genocide, Pages 87-154. https://quod-lib-umich-edu.mutex.gmu.edu/cgi/t/text/text-idx?c=acls;idno=heb03947

(V1) Required Video. Enemies of the People. Director: Thet Sambath & Rob Lemkin

(Group One (Rwanda)):

(Group Two (FRY Part 1)):

(Group Three (FRY Part 2)):

(Group Four (FRY Part 3)):

(Everyone)

13. R2P and The Intervention Debate Continued

(April 25, 2019)

Assignment:

(Everyone)

(Group One)

(Group Two)

(Group Three)

(Group Four)

Ethics & The Use of Force -- Part Five: Case Study & Looking Forward
(May 2, 2019)
Assignment:
(Group One)

(Group Two)

15. Final Examination – Closed Book
(May 9, 2019)
Location Information Pending.

Grading Policy
For purposes of this course, the grades of A or A- are reserved for sustained excellence and outstanding performance that goes well beyond the minimal requirements of the course, both in written assignments and class participation. The grades of B and B+ are used to denote mastery of the material and very good performance in all aspects of the course. The grade of B- denotes marginal quality work that is not quite up to graduate level standards even though the minimal requirements of the course are met. The grade of C denotes work that is not acceptable at the graduate level. The grade of F denotes the failure to perform adequately on course assignments. In short, B means good; B+ means very good; A- means excellent; and A means outstanding.

Attendance in class is required and will be taken into account in evaluation for the course. While it is possible that the requirements of full time jobs may occasionally conflict with class times, missing more than two class sessions will make it virtually impossible to justify/earn a grade higher than B for the course. Missing more than three sessions will make a grade of C likely. If you must miss a class, notify me in advance. For any missed classes, students must submit a 500 word critical summary (two double spaced pages) of the assigned readings. Critical does not mean a negative evaluation, but rather an analysis or evaluation of the readings. The submission is necessary to ensure absent students are adequately prepared for the final, which focuses on the assigned readings.

Email Communication:
Course notices and changes to the syllabus or assignments will be sent to students’ GMU e-mail addresses. Even if you do not regularly use your GMU e-mail account, be sure to open it and place a forwarding address to an account you use regularly, so that you can get GMU, SSPG, and class announcements. Please be sure to empty your account regularly; if it exceeds its limit, you will not receive incoming e-mail. (Deleting forwarded e-mail messages does not delete them from your GMU account).

Policy on Plagiarism:
The profession of scholarship and the intellectual life of a university as well as the field of public policy inquiry depend fundamentally on a foundation of trust. Thus any act of plagiarism strikes at the heart of the meaning of the university and the purpose of the School. It constitutes a serious breach of professional ethics and it is unacceptable.

Plagiarism is the use of another’s words or ideas presented as one’s own. It includes, among other things, the use of specific words, ideas, or frameworks that are the product of another’s work. Honesty and thoroughness in citing sources is essential to professional accountability and personal responsibility. Appropriate citation is necessary so that arguments, evidence, and claims can be critically examined.

Plagiarism is wrong because of the injustice it does to the person whose ideas are stolen. But it is also wrong because it constitutes lying to one’s professional colleagues. From a prudential perspective, it is shortsighted and self-defeating, and it can ruin a professional career.

The faculty of the Schar School of Policy and Government takes plagiarism seriously and has adopted a zero tolerance policy. Any plagiarized assignment will receive an automatic grade of “F.” This may lead to failure for the course, resulting in dismissal from the University. This dismissal will be noted on the student’s transcript. For foreign students who are on a university-sponsored visa (e.g., F-1, J-1 or J-2), dismissal also results in the revocation of their visa.

To help enforce the policy on plagiarism, all written work submitted in partial fulfillment of course or degree requirements must be available in electronic form so that it can be compared with electronic databases, as well as submitted to commercial services to which the School subscribes. Faculty may at any time submit student’s work without prior permission from the student. Individual instructors may require that written work be submitted in electronic as well as printed form. The School policy on plagiarism is supplementary to the George Mason University Honor Code; it is not intended to replace it or substitute for it. (http://www.gmu.edu/facstaff/handbook/aD.html).

Note On This Syllabus:
Please note that this syllabus is subject to change at any point during the semester. As new readings become available (for example), they may substitute or be added to the reading lists contained herein. As always, if you have any questions, concerns, or would like additional information, please do not hesitate to contact your instructor.